DRY PEAS • LENTILS • CHICKPEAS

U.S.A. Pulse Suppliers Guide

Why Buy USA Pulses

U.S. quality, processing and grading standards set us apart from the rest. Buy U.S.-grown pulses for superior service and the qualities you and your customers demand.

Led by Cutting-Edge Research

U.S. pulse growers use current research to determine best growing practices to deliver products for optimal quality and state-of-the-art food safety techniques. U.S. methods of plant breeding allow U.S. farmers to grow and harvest specific varieties of lentils, chickpeas, and dry peas that meet manufacturers' needs – such as higher protein pulses.

Superior Standards

U.S. grown pulses set the standard for quality. The U.S. system of production, inspection and ultra-modern cleaning technology ensures that the product is delivered to customer specifications. The USDA evaluates U.S. pulse crops for quality characteristics including weight, moisture content, color, and defects.

Committed to Tradition

You can trust the products grown by U.S. farmers. Many growers have carried on their family farms for generations and understand the global and domestic consumer's need for quality and sustainable food that is grown in our renowned pulse growing regions in the U.S.

Long-standing Reputation

The U.S. has a well-earned reputation for having the best environment for growing pulses. U.S. grown pulses, like lentils, chickpeas, and dry peas have quicker cooking times and uniformity. The U.S. pulse industry is committed – and has always been committed to – producing and supplying the world with the best quality pulse crops.

CHICKPEAS

DRY PEAS

A large yellow and black combine harvester is shown from a front-three-quarter perspective, moving through a dense field of ripe, golden-brown corn. The harvester's long, black header is extended across the frame, and a significant amount of dust or chaff is being kicked up behind it, partially obscuring the rear. The background consists of rolling hills under a clear, pale blue sky. The overall scene conveys a sense of active agricultural work during harvest season.
